VAHŞET GEÇİDİ / LEMON TREE PASSAGE

Tüm dünyada fenomene dönüşen "Limon Ağacı Geçidi Hayaleti" Youtube videosu, yüzbinlerce kez izlenmiş ve tartışmalar yaratmıştı. Gerçek olaylardan ve bu videodan ilham alınarak çekilen filmde Avustralyalı gençler Oscar ve Geordie, Amerika'dan tatile gelmiş olan Amelia, Toby ve Maya'yı kasabalarındaki hayalet motorcu efsanesinin peşine düşmeye ikna ederler.

Efsaneye göre, Limon Ağacı Geçidi’nde geceleri bir hayalet belirmektedir. Gençlerin korkutucu geçitte şahit oldukları olaylar, eğlenmek için yaptıkları bu yolculuğu bir kabusa dönüştürür. Evlerinden binlerce mil uzaklıktaki gençler, şeytani güçlerin ortaya çıkmasının ardından bir kasabada mahsur kalacak ve dehşet verici olaylara şahit olacaklardır.

Fears for young Australian drivers speeding at 111mph to invoke 'ghost' of dead cyclist - and post footage on YouTube

Fears are growing for the safety of young drivers in an Australian town as a dangerous urban legend has them trying to hit 111mph on an unlit road to conjure the ghost of a dead motorcyclist - and film it for YouTube.

The trend has become so prevalent that local police have been forced to issue public warnings as residents fear for their safety on the roads at night.

The urban legend tells that newly qualified drivers - known locally as 'P Plates' - in Newcastle, New South Wales, who achieving the speed on Lemon Tree Passage can summon the spirit of a 20-year-old motorcyclist who was killed in an accident on the road in 2007.

It is alleged the 'ghost' of the dead motorcyclist appears as a bright light chasing after drivers trying to make them slow down.

As fears that teenagers speeding dangerously are distracted while driving by either the 'ghost' or the act of filming, police are worried that the dangerous high-speed stunt is also putting other motorists at risk.

NEWS that the legend of the Lemon Tree Passage "ghost" has inspired a movie brought back chilling memories for Charlestown resident Tanya Locking.

Tanya and her friend Leanne Kakoulidis say they lived that movie decades before it became a script, and the experience was far from entertaining.

Spooky urban legend comes to life in silver screen debut

By Robert Virtue

Whether you're a sceptic or not, a ghostly urban legend that's gripped the imagination of Port Stephens for decades is coming to life in a feature film.

As the legend goes, the 'ghost' of Lemon Tree Passage in Port Stephens has haunted many a traveller over the years.

The baffling mystery has sent shivers down the spines of those who hear the story, and those who are game enough to test the phenomenon for themselves.

In the dead of night, when only a few cars rumble along the long, eerie stretch of bitumen - Lemon Tree Passage Rd - a mysterious light is said to follow you.

Some believe the light only appears if you're a young driver who's travelling at excessive speeds. Others believe it is the 'ghost' of a young man who died on the road in a motorcycle crash.

Online videos claim to have captured the mysterious light, while other witnesses have shared their haunting stories with local media.

Whether the tale is true or not, it has inspired the plot for a new film, Lemon Tree Passage, which is making its Australian premier in Nelson Bay.

David Campbell co-wrote the film with Erica Brien, and is also the director.

"While this story has been floating around for a long time, it caught my attention when I was watching Today Tonight one night. Right between the dodgy builders and the rip-off banks was this story of kids chasing the urban legend in their cars down this stretch of road," Mr Campbell says.

"It stuck with me for a while, and in my evenings off working in advertising, I started writing a script for it, never really expecting that it would become a movie.

"It developed and it grew, and it got a life of its own to a point where it became a feature film, which was really exciting for me."

Lemon Tree Passage ghost hits big scream, video

IT was after midnight when Joe Finn saw what looked like the light from a Harley Davidson motorcycle approaching in the distance along Lemon Tree Passage Road.

It was Saturday night, he'd had a couple of beers and was sitting in the passenger seat of his mate's car - a P-plater - on the way to a party.

"I was looking in the side mirror and then all of a sudden this light appeared, approaching really fast behind us," the Anna Bay resident told the Newcastle Herald.

"It came from nowhere, I'd been watching it for about 20 seconds when my mate noticed too, it was sitting maybe 20 or 30 metres off the car, I couldn't see anything but the light."

LİMON AĞACI GEÇİDİ'NDE ASLINDA NE OLMUŞTU?

VAHŞET GEÇİDİ / LEMON TREE PASSAGE gerçek bir olaydan uyarlandı. 2010 yılında "Limon Ağacı Geçidi Hayaleti" haberleri, Avustralya'da gündemi uzun süre meşgul etmiş, uluslararası basın ve bir fenomene dönüşen Youtube videosu aracılığıyla tüm dünyada da yankı bulmuştu. Söz konusu habere yansıyan şehir efsanesine göre Avustralya'nın New South Wales eyaletinin Newcastle şehrinde, Port Stephens bölgesindeki bu yolda motosikletiyle belirli bir hızın üzerine çıkan gençleri bir ışık belirip takip etmeye başlıyordu.

Kasım 2007’de bu noktada meydana gelen bir trafik kazasında saatte 111 mil (178 km) hızla ilerleyen 20 yaşındaki bir motosikletçi hayatını kaybetmişti. Beliren ışığın, ölen bu motosikletçi gencin hayaleti olduğu ve motosikletçileri yavaşlamaları konusunda uyarmaya çalıştığı söyleniyordu. Dikiz aynalarında “o” anı yakalamaya çalışan gençler, Limon Ağacı Geçidi’nde 178 km’ye ulaşıp hız denemeleri yapmaya başladılar. Efsane o kadar yayıldı ki, bölge polisi yaşanan kaosa dur demek için bir uyarı yayınlamak zorunda kaldı. Uyarıda şöyle deniyordu: “Seyir esnasında tehlike yaratan sürücülerin bilmesini isteriz ki, görecekleri tek parlak ışık, dikiz aynasında belirecek kırmızı-mavi polis arabası siren ışığı olacaktır.” Bölgede bu efsanenin gerçek olmadığını açıklamaya çalışan haberler ve afişler yapıldı. Fakat bu esnada hayaleti kamerasına kaydettiğini söyleyen bir gencin videosu Youtube’da yüzbinlerce kez izlendi. Videoya yapılan yorumlar, görüntünün “bir hayli gerçekçi” olduğu görüşünde hemfikirdi.
